

ADD ONE/RICHARD ALLEN

The Center's Visiting Scholars Program is a partnership with the University of Pennsylvania Law School. It brings distinguished constitutional experts from across the country to Philadelphia to participate in educational outreach programs and to undertake research and writing projects. The program seeks to bridge the divide that sometimes separates academia from the community at large. Visiting Scholars have participated in programs ranging from informal gallery talks to formal academic lectures, and have produced materials for onsite and online audiences.

Richard Allen is a senior fellow at the Hoover Institution and is an expert on foreign and national security policy, international trade and economic policy, and Asia and the Pacific Basin. He previously served as Richard Nixon's foreign policy coordinator and served twice in the Nixon White House. Allen also was Ronald Reagan's chief foreign policy adviser from 1977 to 1980, and President Reagan's first national security adviser from 1981 to 1982. A Hoover fellow since 1966, Allen is currently an Honorary Fellow in the Department of Politics at the University of Otago and a Fellow of St. Margaret's College (both in New Zealand). He holds a master's degree in political science from the University of Notre Dame.

Stanley Ridgley currently serves as Assistant Professor of Strategic Management and International Business at Temple University's Fox School of Business. In his previous position as a military intelligence officer, Ridgley served in West Berlin, as well as near the Czech-German border, where he received the George S. Patton Award for Leadership from the 7th Army Academy in Bad Toelz, West Germany. Ridgley's areas of expertise include signals intelligence, electronic intelligence, and operations security, as well as Russian translation and analysis. Ridgley holds a doctorate and master's degree in international security from Duke University, and an international M.B.A from Temple University.

The National Constitution Center, located at 525 Arch St. on Philadelphia's Independence Mall, is an independent, nonpartisan, nonprofit organization dedicated to increasing public understanding of the U.S. Constitution and the ideas and values it represents. The Center serves as a museum, an education center, and a forum for debate on constitutional issues. The museum dramatically tells the story of the Constitution from Revolutionary times to the present through more than 100 interactive, multimedia exhibits, film, photographs, text, sculpture and artifacts, and features a powerful, award-winning theatrical performance, "Freedom Rising." The Center also houses the Annenberg Center for Education and Outreach, which serves as the hub for national constitutional education. Also, as a nonpartisan forum for constitutional discourse, the Center presents – without endorsement – programs that contain diverse viewpoints on a broad range of issues. For more information and to make reservations for the Richard Allen event, call 215.409.6700 or visit www.constitutioncenter.org.

-MORE-

ADD TWO/RICHARD ALLEN

###