NATIONAL CONSTITUTION CENTER TESTIMONIALS

President George H.W. Bush

“...this jewel of America brings the message of our Constitution, a timeless document which continues to change and transform our world, to the nation. The work of our Founders remains as current and timely as ever, and without the leadership and remarkable efforts of [the Center], fewer people would be touched by its magic.”

Bono

“[The National Constitution Center] is an inspiring place.”

Justice Antonin Scalia

“It’s a rare encounter with a constitutional interpretation that I can walk through without coming out with hard feelings. I had none at all.”

First Lady Laura Bush

About “Freedom Rising” – “I found it so moving I wanted to weep at the end of it. I want to encourage people to come here.”

Ken Burns

“[The National Constitution Center] is wonderful...it’s ground zero for who we are.”

Ruth Bader Ginsburg

“The Constitution starts out with three beautiful words – We the People. But who were the people? They were white property owning men. The genius of this Constitution – and I think this place displays that so marvelously – is that over the years this concept of We the People that was once a very elite group has become more and more expansive.”

David McCullough

“What this wonderful new institution represents is the very basis of our secular creed. Any support, financial, psychological, using the influence of the roles that you play in your professional lives that you can give to this institution, you’re doing the Lord’s work. This couldn’t be more important.”

George Will

“[The National Constitution Center] is a modernist jewel of America's civic life.”

ADD ONE/TESTIMONIALS

Kathleen Sullivan, Professor, Stanford Law School

"It [the National Constitution Center] reminds us that the Constitution is an aspiration and an ideal."

Michael Zuckerman, Professor of history, University of Pennsylvania

"Already at its birth, one of the nation's greatest museums."

Jason DeParle, New York Times, September 11, 2005

"The National Constitution Center has something for everyone...Since opening in 2003, it has put forward a vision of constitutional history both left and right have embraced."
